

Abstract of the Disclosure

An automatic wastewater pipe flushing, unclogging, and blockage removal system consisting of a source of compressed gas connected to and releasable into the pipe and release control apparatus including a sensor to detect water backup and a valve operated by the sensor to provide a burst of compressed gas into the pipe in the region of and upstream from the blockage. A timer may be included to regulate the duration of the burst.

JG950 U.S. PTO
01/14/02

40053893-044402